

Season's Greetings

As 2008 comes to a close, I would like to extend a warm holiday greeting to all of our friends—old and new—and thank you for your continuing support of the Mason School of Business at the College of William and Mary.

We celebrated many achievements this year. In each of our programs we welcomed some of our largest and most talented classes ever. The stature of our programs, as measured by the various rankings, is on the rise and our faculty continues to be recognized in student and alumni surveys as one of the best in the country.

The coming year will bring new challenges—and new opportunities—on many fronts. I welcome them. The past several years have taught me that there is no limit to what we can achieve as long as we continue, all of us—faculty, students, staff, executive partners, alumni and friends—to work closely together.

Happy Holidays and Happy New Year for one last time from our current home in Tyler and Blow Halls. Thank you for a wonderful 2008. Warm wishes for peace, happiness, and prosperity in 2009.
