STORIES OF REVOLUTIONARY THINKING

Revolutionaries Welcome

William & Mary's Mason School of Business celebrated its new home, Alan B. Miller Hall, with a public dedication on Oct. 2, 2009.

With the sound of a Fifes and Drum Corps leading the way, faculty, staff, students, alumni, community members and friends joined in to celebrate the beginning of a revolution in business education at the nation's second oldest university.

In his remarks, Dean Larry Pulley said that Miller Hall is poised to take the business school to new heights as it prepares the nation's next generation of business leaders. He stated "We intend to do great things. To count. To make a difference. That is our cause." >>
