Announcements

Class of 2021:
Be on the lookout for emails from the Mason Commencement Committee regarding your upcoming Commencement!

Class of 2022:
Last week, the Grad Council President, Jane Chiffriller, sent out an email with the link to a Graduate Student Life Satisfaction Survey. I encourage you to take it if you haven’t already. It should only take 10-12 minutes, is anonymous, and many students from our school have already completed it! The survey will be available until March 29th.

This survey will help us understand whether you all feel connected to the greater William & Mary community and it will help us learn how we can help our students access more campus resources.

It will also allow us to understand our school’s perception of diversity, equity, and inclusion at William & Mary, and how many people in our community feel confidence in our school’s ability to address DE&I concerns.

By comparing data from all graduate programs around campus, the Graduate Council can foster a better connection between the graduate schools and between us and the William & Mary administration.

I know many of you have not been able to access the campus this year, but I still hope you take the survey to help the Graduate Council understand student priorities and to provide a benchmark for future surveys.

Podcast Spotlight: Light at the End of the COVID Tunnel with Rajiv Kohli, John N. Dalton Professor of Business at William & Mary

After a year of social distancing, virtual meetings and homeschooling, people are ready to shed their masks and get back to life as we knew it before we were introduced to COVID-19. As the weather improves and we see family, friends, and colleagues receiving vaccinations, people are finally seeing light at the end of the tunnel. As we record this episode of the podcast, the CDC reports 11% of American adults have received both coronavirus vaccine doses. And two million doses a day are being administered. Rajiv Kohli is the John N. Dalton Professor of Business at William & Mary. He's a leading scholar in health information technology and a healthcare expert. For over 15 years, he's worked and consulted with several top healthcare organizations. Kohli says we're getting there, faster than many experts originally predicted. And as events continue to move in a positive direction, there are many things to think about before COVID-19 is in our rearview mirror.
